At this session, we will explore several meal narratives from scripture and then discuss a few changes to the Institution narrative. Because it is so important, we'll want to understand the text changes. Time is telescoped as we hear the words Jesus spoke over bread and wine at his last meal with his friends. Jesus participated in the Passover ritual many times, but made a significant change at the Last Supper. He gave us his Body and Blood, the ultimate sacrifice and covenant between God and humanity.

We'll also highlight the scriptural roots of the words of consecration. Even though the words are different, the cornerstone of our faith remains firm: bread and wine are transformed into Christ's Body and Blood. Our acclamation, sung in different words, still voices our affirmation.

Now is a wonderful opportunity to explore this profound mystery central to our faith. Let us take a fresh look and renew its meaning.

Come and join us! Be sure to bring your copy of Understanding the Revised Mass Texts, Second Edition, to the session.
